Think, for a second, just how incredibly important the face is. Not "your" face necessarily (though I'm sure it's fantastic) but the human face as a thing-in-itself; yes, the human face in terms of – for starters – functionality, identity, like-ability. Now imagine hooking an object onto that piece of prime, grade-A real estate. It's going to make a huge impact, no? Will you get the job, the girl, the book deal, etc? Maybe it all comes down to the specs or shades (or monocle?) positioned there on your human, all too human, face. In which case, this may be the most crucial gift guide installment that you will ever read. Ever!
